Seek Dry Derby

Lexington, Ky., May 12.—(UP)—W. G. Mays, federal prohibition administrator for Kentucky and Tennessee, announced tonight that every road and every bridge near Louisville is to be guarded in an attempt to head off streams of liquor expected here from Chicago, Detroit, and Florida for the Derby day crowds. Thirty-five agents from throughout the district have been ordered to report here today. United States coast guards will be on duty on the Ohio river, Mays said.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Thirty-one special trains, carrying more than 7,900 persons in Pullmans and private cars, are scheduled to run from Chicago to the Kentucky Derby Saturday. Regular trains are expected to transport more than 1,000 other race followers. Motor clubs expect that 2,000 automobiles also will make the trip if the weather is favorable. Cutting this latter estimate in half, it seems probable that 12,000 Chicagoans will travel to Churchill Downs for the big race—9,000 by train and 3,000 by auto.

The officials of the railroads supplying travel facilities—E. M. Holt of the Pennsylvania, Herbert Wiley of the Monon, C. B. Munyan of the Big Four, and E. H. Batchelder of the C. & E. I.—asserted yesterday that the demand for reservations is greater than ever before—perhaps 15 to 20 per cent larger. This is attributed to three reasons—more interest in racing, better advertising by the Kentuckians, and the fact that poor roads and lack of hotel accommodations makes motorcycling less desirable than a trip by train.

$1,800,000 Is Estimated Cost.

These 12,000 guests of Louisville are expected to spend the enormous total of $1,800,000 on the visiting. This may seem large, but the estimates of two railroad men were considerably larger. It is true that the railroad fare for the round trip is only $21.60 and a sleeper both ways adds $7.50 more, but a very large number of those going will be members of the parties conducted by persons who have had experience in such undertakings. These passengers comprise the bulk of the traffic and will pay an average of $10 each.

Then, nearly every man will want to buy a present for his wife at home, and an average of $10 is estimated for that purpose. Every race attendant will seek a "little cash for the baby's bank" and will wager to get a high out of the contest. Perhaps the head for that purpose is low, but that estimate was used in forecasting an aggregate expense for the 12,000 Chicagoans of $1,800,000.

Demand Best Accommodations.

The Pennsylvania is the leader in the number of passengers that railroads will transport. The Monon comes next, the Big Four third, and the C. & E. fourth.

The feature of the railroad transportation is the demand for the best accommodations each road can supply. Everyone asked for Pullmans, and comparatively few have been satisfied with berths in open sections. More than three-fourths of the race meet want to go as millionaires. The result is that the Pennsylvania and the Monon have supplied compartment and drawing room space for nearly 50 per cent of those to be handled in special trains. In addition, each train has a club car, and two others. Chicagoans have asked and received the equivalent of equipment supplied on extra fare trains.

Many Sections of Regular Trains.

The Pennsylvania railroad will run 17 special trains. Eliminating the club cars and diners and limiting only to those producing Pullman, the Illinois Athletic association has reserved two cars of 18 cars on the Pennsylvania to carry its members. The Medinah Athletic club has one train of nine cars, the Lake Shore Athletic club has 12 cars, the Bondsmen's club has 10 cars, the Joliet Athletic club has 12 cars, Eddie McCabe and his friends 11 cars, and Sammy Wolff and friends 14 cars. These all leave Chicago tonight between 9 and 10 o'clock and arrive in Louisville tomorrow morning. In addition three sections of regular train will leave tonight. Tomorrow night the Pennsylvania tice in Harbor Grace had heard the motor the report was discounted.

Despite this government authorities have issued instructions throughout Newfoundland that any information which might throw light upon the fate of the fliers be reported at once.

To Send Los Angeles.

The United States government is aiding the planes of the Americans to span the Atlantic, but the principal movement is not being extended in the search for the missing Nungesser and Coli.

The dirigible Los Angeles will leave Lakewood, N. J., tomorrow on a training flight, and will scout along the New England coast in an endeavor to find some trace of the White Bird.

From the slower moving dirigible it would be possible to conduct a search with greater thoroughness than from airplanes.

Without Food or Water.

Without food or water—for it is believed that the emergency rations would not have been partly spoiled after a night spent in a rough sea—they could hardly keep up their strength. It is also not believed that the airplane would hold together long as its fuselage was built of wood, and the shock of landing would strain the structure badly. The wings twist off soon after landing in a sea, and this would have wrenched the body of the plane.

There were few men familiar with what happens to an airplane forced down on the water, who were willing today to hazard the hope that the gallant airmen were still alive. They felt that even though they might have been picked up by a sailing vessel, some passing steamer with wireless would have been notified.

Better Equipped for Flight.

The Bellanca plane is much better equipped for a trans-Atlantic flight, apparently, than was the White Bird. The most important instrument which the Bellanca will carry, and which Nungesser did not have, is the earth indicator compass. This compass does not possess a magnetic pole, but is actuated by a small electrical generator and maintains a constant position north and south.

The Bellanca also will carry a small wireless set for emergency purposes. Nungesser did not have wireless because he wanted to carry more fuel.

If Nungesser had had wireless he might have been able to send out an SOS signal which would have given his position to some vessel and enabled them to reach him in time for a rescue. The Bellanca, however, on the Bellanca is very small and has a sending radius of about 50 miles and a receiving radius somewhat longer.

Carries Life Boat.

The Bellanca is much better equipped with safety appliances, in the event of its being forced down on the ocean. The White Bird had a dump valve in its main tank, just as the Bellanca has, a device which permits the pilot to empty the tank and use it as a buoyancy tank in case of a descent.

But the Bellanca also carries a collapsible life boat, to be blown up by compressed air, in which two men could keep afloat for some time. And they also have life preservers. These will be placed inside the tank in the navigator's tiny compartment, and could be reached while the plane floated, even though its tail was high in the air.

Denies Paris Reports.

19 ARMY PLANES FLY IN FORMATION FROM MICHIGAN TO TEXAS

San Antonio, Tex., May 11.—(UPI)—Nineteen pursuit planes from Selfridge Field, Michigan, swooped down to Kelly Field here shortly before six o'clock this afternoon, completing one of the greatest formation flights the United States army ever attempted.

The squadron made the trip of 1,340 miles in approximately twelve and one-half hours actual flying time. The planes left Selfridge Field at 1:50 a. m. and arrived at an average of 115 miles an hour throughout the trip.

Stops were made at Scott Field, Belleville, Ill., and Muskogee, Okla.

It was four miles (almost six hours) at Muskogee tonight since the White Bird left Paris, without news of the French planes.

Their chances of remaining afloat for that time are considered very slight, particularly if they came down far out at sea, where they would be battered by some of the storms reported in mid-Atlantic. And if they were very far north the cold would prevent their remaining alive for long while drenched by the waves.

MAJOR PREDICTS NEW FINANCING PLAN'S SUCCESS

But He's Less Hopeful on Transit Projects.

Chicago will be victorious in obtaining legislation to solve both its financial and transit problems at this session of the legislature, Mayor William Hale Thompson predicted yesterday from his return from Springfield where he conferred with Gov. Small.

The governor, as well as leaders in the legislature, the mayor reported, are sympathetic to his expansion of the bill to boost Chicago's bonding limit to $100,000,000 by basing its assessments on full instead of one-half the actual values, coincidentally cutting in half the tax rate. Gov. Small, he said, had agreed to sign such a bill.

Less Hopeful on Transit.

As for the transit measures, the mayor was not quite so optimistic, although he pointed to the defeat of the McClellan and Dorey bills as indicative that "the legislature will give us a favorable hearing." He did not comment on Gov. Small's transit ideas.

As regards the transportation bills, Mr. Thompson made it clear that he will concentrate his attention first on consolidating all lines and probably a terminable permit.

Joseph M. McDonagh, chairman of the city's local transportation committee, said he will have to use script for payrolls and Mr. English of the school board says he must close the schools if we don't get relief.

Nothing comes along now to keep the city from getting a running start, he asserted. "Ald. Clark of the finance committee says we will have to use script for payrolls and Mr. English of the school board says he must close the schools if we don't get relief.

Expect Bill's Success.

"I realize that we are acting fast, but I am convinced that my solution is the best in sight and I am assuming the full responsibility," he explained. "Bill Thompson never ducked responsibility—I never blamed the judges because the police didn't catch crooks—and I'm not passing the buck."

Mayor Thompson announced that he intends to urge the officials of other states to buy similar preserves along the tributaries to the Mississippi to aid in controlling flood waters.

COUNTY COMMISSIONER WILSON'S SON DIES IN AUTO-TROLLEY CRASH

George Wilson, 30 years old, son of County Commissioner Frank J. Wilson, was fatally injured last night in a collision between his automobile and a street car at Milwaukee and Clark avenues. He suffered a fractured skull and several broken ribs and died at the Keystone hospital shortly before 5 o'clock this morning.

Mrs. Julia F. Penn, 30 years old, of 606 Drexel boulevard, was knocked down and fatally injured by an automobile at Drexel boulevard and 62nd street. The driver, Samuel De Santo, 1801 Drexel avenue, was charged with driving at 55 miles an hour.

George Druse, 55 years old, 851 North Marshall avenue, died of injuries received on Jan. 7 when he was struck by a truck.

The three deaths increased Cook county's 1927 motor toll to 308.

With only five dissenting votes the city council yesterday petitioned the legislature to pass the Schnackenberg amendment providing for a state-wide referendum on the Weber-O'Grady bill, which seeks to repeal the state prohibition and search and seizure acts. Ald. John Coughlin (1) introduced the petition.

Voting no were Ald. Guy Guernsey, Sheldon W. Covier, Donald S. McKinlay, John A. Chapman, and Wiley W. Mills. Ald. Covier called the action "bunk wet propaganda."

A second resolution of Ald. Coughlin's, asking the city to sell the property at 371-77 West Madison street, valued at $800,000, to help make up its financial deficit, was referred to the committee on public works.

With Ald. John Toman and John Coughlin voting no, the council adopted a resolution protesting against a bill pending in the legislature providing for two aldermen from each ward. The resolution also censured Ald. Clark for his opposition to the Illinois Commerce commission.

HEART

DRY AGENT BACK
ON JOB; MURDER
TRIAL DELAYEDU. S. Court Takes Case
Away from State.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service)
Los Angeles, Cal., May 11.—[Special]—With a murder indictment hanging over his head, but with his prosecution in the county court blocked by intervention of the federal courts, George Hudson, federal prohibition officer, tomorrow will set out on a mission known only to himself and Federal Commissioner of Enforcement Supervisor Frank McReynolds.

Hudson will travel unattended into Arizona on "government transportation," McReynolds said this afternoon. As to whether Hudson's trip indicates that the accused man, despite the $10,000 bonds by which he won his freedom from jail in the murder case, is again on the government pay roll, Maj. McReynolds suggested that "you draw your own conclusions."

Hudson is one of two principals in a murder case which bids fair to become celebrated. The other principal is Frank Farley.

Kill a Man in the Street.

Farley, according to statements taken by police and county prosecutors, was "intoxicated, and driving recklessly on the wrong side of the street, at a terrific speed," the night of last April 5, when he drove his prohibition office automobile taken out by himself and Hudson, heading into the car of Percy Ingmore, oil corporation vice president.

Ingmore died. Hudson, according to witnesses, was "intoxicated, in the back seat."

Farley and Hudson, together with four other occupants of the car, were indicted for Ingmore's death. The Los Angeles county grand jury charged them with second degree murder.

Two of the county's prosecutors, E. J. Dennis and David Clark, proposed to push immediate prosecution of Farley and Hudson last April 27. The other four passengers in Farley's car, one of them a woman, were indicted, more to hold them as material witnesses in the trial than to make an effort toward their conviction.

Hudson Secures His Liberty.

While the woman, Mrs. Margaret McAllister, whom Farley accused as the "bootlegger who sold us drinks," and the other three indicted persons stayed in the county jail, Hudson and Farley arranged their first step toward liberation.

They appeared before Superior Judge Douglas Edmonds of Los Angeles county and asked to be admitted to bail. Bonds of $10,000 were set. Farley could not raise this sum, and still is in the hospital ward of County jail.

J. A. Hemingway Is Approved
as Member of School Board

With the appointment yesterday afternoon of James A. Hemingway as school trustee, Mayor Thompson's forces in the battle to oust Supt. William McAndrew began to maneuver for control of the board of education.

J. Lewis Coath, at the board meeting yesterday, demanded that Supt. McAndrew furnish trustees with copies of three proposed new text books, and later refused to approve the appointment of Trustee Otto L. Schmidt as the board's representative in the history controversy until he was assured that final action in any text book matter would be reserved for the entire board.

Keep Plans Secret.

Dr. Schmidt in turn asked Mr. Coath to address all remarks to the chair.

The new members, now completely mobilized, are keeping their plans to oust Supt. McAndrew with the utmost secrecy, pending their attempt to get control of the board in the annual election on May 27.

Getting rid of the superintendent, Mr. Coath said yesterday, was a matter of minor importance to him.

Trustee Walter H. Brandenburg, in an address to the Steuben club yesterday, said that he had been commissioned by the mayor to purify school histories.

"I want you to put back in the histories the names and deeds of your German forefathers," he quoted the mayor as saying.

Franklin Dodge, former federal agent, also was named in the warrant, which is said to have charged that Mrs. Remus and Dodge with issuing certificate of sale of 10 barrels of whisky which did not belong to her.

"This is terrible—being arrested for something you did not do," Mrs. Remus said at police headquarters.

Cincinnati, O., May 11.—(AP)—Mrs. Imogene Remus, one time "king of bootleggers," was arrested here today on a warrant from Portsmouth, O., sworn out by her husband, charging her with murder. The two principals in a murder case which bids fair to be celebrated. The other principal is Frank Farley.

Kill a Man in the Street.

According to statements taken by police and county prosecutors, was "intoxicated, and driving recklessly on the wrong side of the street, at a terrific speed," the night of last April 5, when he drove his prohibition office automobile taken out by himself and Hudson, heading into the car of Percy Ingmore, oil corporation vice president.

Ingmore died. Hudson, according to witnesses, was "intoxicated, in the back seat."

Farley and Hudson, together with four other occupants of the car, were indicted for Ingmore's death. The Los Angeles county grand jury charged them with second degree murder.

Two of the county's prosecutors, E. J. Dennis and David Clark, proposed to push immediate prosecution of Farley and Hudson last April 27. The other four passengers in Farley's car, one of them a woman, were indicted, more to hold them as material witnesses in the trial than to make an effort toward their conviction.

No Precedent to Point Way.

According to Deputy District Attorney E. J. Dennis, David Clark, Tracy Becker, and Assistant States Attorney General Frank Richards, who went before Judge James in an attempt to remand the prisoners to state court, there is no exact precedent to govern the case from the present point on.

No date has been set for Farley and Hudson to go on trial in the federal court. The procedure governing the selection of date will have to wait until after May 1, the date of the election.

On May 1 a new federal court calendar is drawn. It will determine the schedule of federal trials until December.

CHICAGO'S FIGHT TO REMAP STATE IS ON IN HOUSE

Little Progress Made in First Day.

BY JOHN HERRICK.

Springfield, Ill., May 11.—[Special.]—Cook county representatives began their long awaited fight for reapportionment this morning with the opening of debate in the house on the Dailey resolution, which has passed the senate and has only to be approved in the lower chamber to set a committee to work drawing up a new legislation needed to redivide state.

They did not come off well in their first skirmish. Their fight is against time, for only thirty days is allowed the committee to do its work, and the session is drawing to its close. And the end of the first day of many hours of argument found a vote still far off and further debate postponed until next Tuesday.

Oratory Considered Useless.

The effort of a group of Cook county stateheads, led by Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg, to bring the question to an immediate vote met with rebuff from the senate, which has not already talked. And this despite the general acknowledgment that all the oratory heard today and to be heard in the future, will not change a vote.

Representative Ralph S. Hoar of Elgin, chairman of the house reapportionment committee, kept his promise to report the resolution in this morning, and a motion to nonconcur by Representative Arthur Roe of Vandavia, gave the legislators their cue.

Mr. Schnackenberg began on behalf of Cook county:

"The Supreme court decided it had no power to mandamus the legislature to reapportion," he declared. "Are we then to fail to perform our constitutional duty merely because there is no power in the state that can punish us?"

"We have not before us the question of changing the constitution of the state of Illinois, but only the question of obeying it. It is no answer if you do not wish to keep a contract to say the contract is not the way you want it."

See Justifies Opposition.

Representative Roe replied that he had no apologies to offer for what he believed to be right. He read the oath of office which declares that a legislator, like other officers, must discharge his duties to the "best of his ability." And in that phrase, he said, he found his justification.

Representative Jutti of Chicago said

DAY IN SPRINGFIELD

BILLS SIGNED.

By Igoe, to exempt personal property, other than tangible property in the state, belonging to nonresident decedents living in states granting similar exemptions; by Weisz, to increase county school superintendents' salaries $600 annually in counties under $10,000 and $3,000 in Cook county; by Browne, to remedy defect in court of claims act.

HOUSE.

Bills passed—By E. A. W. Johnson, to authorize $6,000,000 Lincoln park bond issue, emergency; by Dailey (Senate bill), to cure defect in laws relating to foreign corporations, emergency. New bills—By Dailey, to permit use of Illinois-Michigan canal for highway purposes; by Overland, to increase tax rate in Des Plaines and Illinois river sanitary districts from 18 to 26 cents by O'Grady, to punish persons conspiring to fix athletic contests by $200 fine or month in jail.

Senate.

Small forces blocked consideration of gasoline tax.

Bills passed—Senate bills: To appropriate $200,000 for Black Hawk Watch State park; to nullify "tip trust" employees' contracts; revising regulations for manufacture of ice cream; Sabbath marriage license bill; to create commission to revise banking laws; to license and regulate aviation through state commission.

New bills passed—By Joyce, Gov. Small's bill to revise primary law; by Forrester, to add ten judges to Criminal court of Cook county; by Marks, to appropriate $5,000,000 for Lake Shore state park between Waukegan and Zion City.

Those who refused to reapportion were cheating and nothing else. He was followed by Representative Frank A. McCarthy of Elgin, who declared Health Commissioner Bundeens campaign against men from tuberculosis cattle was typical of the high-handed methods Cook county would impose on downstate if given the power.

Mrs. O'Neill Wins Applause.

Then came Representative Little Hogan O'Neill, and her appeal to the house assembly women received more applause than any other speech of the day.

It is inconsistent that women should vote against this remedy for an unfair representation," she declared.

It is inconsistent that they should assist in disfranchising any one—they who so recently suffered unfair representation, they who until a few years ago.

A legislative investigation into ticket scalping in Chicago, offered by Representative Thomas O'Grady, was approved by the house municipalities committee.

The joint revenue committees of the senate and house will go to Chicago tomorrow and on Friday will be taken through the south park system.

ASSEMBLY ASKED TO BE STRICT IN PENSION GRANTS

JURIST ATTACKS FILM CENSORSHIP BY CITY'S BOARD

Judge David Charges Inconsistent Criticisms.

Alarmed because "not since 1916 has the Illinois legislature been so besieged with requests for pension legislation," officials of the Civic Federation of Chicago yesterday issued a statement suggesting that the legislature should "firmly and without hesitation reject all pension requests which do not measure up to the high standards which it has already adopted upon careful recommendation of the pension law commission."

"Any sign of weakening upon the part of the assembly, however, will be seized upon by groups seeking special allowances as an invitation to urge their demands in any fashion and at any time," adds the statement.

Seventeen Bills Pending.

No less than seventeen bills affecting twelve existing pension funds and proposing to create one new pension fund are now pending before the legislature, the report reveals.

One of the pending bills which is taken up in the statement is intended and aims to amend the pension pension fund statute by providing that pensions of men retired should fluctuate with pay of men in active service.

This proposed amendment, says the statement, "sets a dangerous precedent for public pensions funds."

It adds that this fund should be placed upon the standard actuarial basis adopted by the legislature for five large pension funds pursuant to recommendations of its own Illinois pension law commission in 1918.

More Burden on Public.

The proposal to amend the Chicago public pension act by raising the maximum salary benefit from $3,000 to $4,000 would result in "throwing the original actuarial calculations out of balance and put an additional burden upon the public," says the statement.

Other pending measures disapproved by the federation are those which seek to double the present pension allowances of the Chicago public library employees and to amend the state pension employees pension fund to admit "without adequate fiscal provisions" municipal bailiffs and clerks to the Chicago municipal employees' pension fund. Clayton Mark is president of the federation and Rufus C. Dawes is treasurer.

SMALL FORCES SENATE DELAY ON GAS TAX BILL

Fears Test of Power in Committee of Whole.

BY PARKE BROWN.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Springfield, Ill., May 11.—[Special.] Gov. Small and his forces in the Senate ran away today from defeat on the gasoline tax bill. Last week the upper house voted to make this measure of the governor the subject of consideration before the committee of the whole this afternoon.

At 1 o'clock today the governor, it is said, ordered that consideration be postponed because of the increasing strength shown by the opposition.

Protest of Faith.

There was emphatic protest from Senator Thomas J. Courtney of Chicago, Senator Henry M. Dunlap of Savoy, and others against this breach of faith with a number of whom had come to Springfield expecting a hearing. But the administration forces refused to take up the subject today.

Had they done so, it was said by men active in fighting the bill, they were almost certain of a trimming in the adoption of a string of amendments that would have left the bill useless for the governor's purpose. In fact, were it not that three anti-gasoline senators left town for the Kentucky Derby, it is said, the bill probably would have been rocked to permanent sleep. Those three were Harold C. Koerner, Aurora; Arthur A. Huehbeck, Brookfield, Cook county, and Lowell B. Mason, Oak Park.

Sterling Uses Big Stick.

Before departing they obtained assurances from Lieut. Gov. Fred E. Sterling, president of the senate, that there would be no action on the motor fuel tax today, and in confirming this agreement the lieutenant governor showed one of the rare signs of charm which ordinarily is lacking in his conduct of the chamber's affairs.

He was emphatically urging that protest from Senator Courtney that there would be no action on this particular bill until there was a full attendance, and the scrap wound up with the adoption of a motion setting the bill for a hearing before the committee of the whole next Wednesday morning.

Might Have Forced Action.

Had Gov. Small known that some of the opponents of his bill were race track bound, it is probable that he would have sought to advance the bill from second to third or final reading, but a number of these men, it is said, that if it came to a vote with those present at the morning session in attendance, the opposition would have won.

Even minus the three Derby bound

BAR ASSOCIATION TO POLL ITS VOTE IN JUDICIAL RACE

Called to Take Stand on Coalition Lineup.

Plenty of inside politics was spilled out yesterday as the judicial campaign stepped up. The three sitting judges running as independents against the coalition ticket charged the regular party leaders with resorting to "cheap technicalities" in an endeavor to keep anti-coalition candidates off the ballot and to find out the reasons why they believed they were not renominated with the other judges.

The Chicago Bar association will take part in the campaign today, when the board of managers meets to decide whether a bar primary should be held and what stand the association should take on the coalition candidates. The committee on nominations, headed by Edgar B. Tolman, is said to have strongly resented the omission of the names of Judges Charles M. Thomson, Oscar M. Torrison, and Frank Johnston Jr. from the coalition slate.

Seek Straight Ticket Vote.

Inside politics, so-called, will produce a ballot to be presented to the voters June 6 on which eight Democrats will run as Republicans under the coalition ticket, and the politician hoping thus to corner the straight ticket vote. Thus, there will be 16 contestants names under the Democratic, a third column of names under the heading Citizens' Non-coalition party, and the names of Judges Thomson, Torrison and Johnston in a fourth column.

ZIMBALIST'S $10,000 VIOLIN IS RECOVERED HERE; THIEF ARRESTED

(Picture on back page.) Herman Shivil, 25 years old, entered police at the detective bureau yesterday by playing on a rare violin valued at $10,000 which he confessed he had stolen seven weeks ago from Efrem Zimbalist, noted violinist, during a Los Angeles concert.

Both Lyon and Hirsch, the Wurzburgers, stores on Wabash avenue were visited by Shivil, who asked an appraisal of the instrument. Rembert Wurzitter, noticing the violin's resemblance to the stolen one, which was sold by his concern to Zimbalist, notified the police, who placed Shivil under arrest.

Hold at the Central station, Shivil told of entering Zimbalist's dressing room while the concert was in progress. He could not resist temptation to steal the instrument, he said. Police said he disposed of an $800 bow for $15. Two other bows were sold in Kansas City, he said.

Asked a formal withdrawal before County Clerk Robert M. Swettler, leaving the coalition candidates to run on the Republican ballot.

John J. Rooney yesterday withdrew from both the Democratic Independent ticket, circulated by the Lawyers' Association, and the coalition ticket. Three other "independents" also withdrew, saying the Lawyers' association had no authority to use their names. They were Joseph P. Savage, Thomas Marshall and Francis X. Busch.

Blame Court Decision.

Republican and Democratic leaders were busy denouncing what they were responsible for the report that objections would be filed against the candidates of all the independents because they omitted to file their petitions with the secretary of state as well as with the county clerk.

Judge Thomson has traced his unpopularity with the party leaders to a decision he wrote in the Pageant of Progress case. During the political surface, Donald R. Richberg, special counsel for the city in the $12,000,000 rebate case against the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, yesterday charged that Judge Torrison had similarly incurred the wrath of the bosses by his decision against the gas company.

Attorney Richberg pointed out that Samuel Insull is a heavy contributor to campaign funds of both parties and asserted that pressure had probably been brought to bear upon Judge Torrison to induce him to decide in favor of the gas company.

PERSHING HONORS HEROES; FORGETS HIS ANNIVERSARY

PARIS, May 11.—(AP)—The tenth anniversary of his appointment as commander of the American expeditionary force today found Gen. John J. Pershing in Paris busy in the work of placing monuments at important points marking the valor of American troops in the world war.

"I really forgot today was the anniversary of my appointment as commander in chief," Gen. Pershing said.

GRAY AND WIDOW TO BE SENTENCED TO DEATH FRIDAY

Judge Advances Decree;
Judd Praises Jury.

New York, May 11.—[Special.]—The sentence of death will be imposed upon Mrs. Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray, convicted slayers of the woman's husband, Albert Snyder, at 10 o'clock on Friday morning instead of on Monday, as previously decided, Justice Townsend Scudder announced yesterday.

Justice Scudder, who presided at the trial, will impose sentence, which is mandatory under the law. He informed attorneys for Mrs. Snyder and Gray of his decision to set the earlier date. The attorneys agreed to have their motions ready on Friday. The change in plan will send the two to the death house three days earlier than had been expected.

Gray Praises Jury.

Gray today praised the jury which found him and his erstwhile mistress guilty and described the verdict as "wise and sensible."

In his cell in the Queens county jail the philanthropic concert salesman, who had said before the jury took the case that he was not afraid to die, talked calmly of his fate with Under-sheriff William Desmond.

"If I had been sitting on that jury and heard the same evidence, I should have brought in the same verdict," Gray said. "I have received the full forgiveness of my mother, my wife, and my friends. I have told the truth, and I feel that my conscience is clear. I am ready to die."

When Pilot Ed Ballough brought his plane to the ground at 7 o'clock last night on Ashburn's field, he brought with him Mrs. Frances Dickinson, the 72-year-old sister of Charles Dickinson, Chicago aviation enthusiast and head of the Aero club of Illinois. She is believed to be the first woman of her age to make such a sustained flight.

Head winds and two landings for fuel, Ballough said, kept him from the 1,000 miles down to approximately 200 hours. Dr. Dickinson will attend a meeting of the Aero club board tomorrow.

Mother, Mrs. Josephine Brown, who was reported to have suffered a nervous collapse after the trial.

Mrs. Snyder was visited by jail attendants, but almost recovered from the hysteria which seized her when she learned her flight to send Judd Gray to the chair and to escape it herself had failed. "Physicians today said she was not suffering from epilepsy.

WIVES AT GENEVA URGE STANDARD WORLD KITCHEN

Too Many Kinds of Stoves

Now, They Say.

[Copyright: 1927: By The Chicago Tribune.]

GENEVA, Switzerland, May 11.—A group of women attending the league of nations' economic conference today presented a resolution asking that steps be taken to standardize the kitchen of the world.

The women point out that there is a terrific waste, due to the manufacture of scores of sizes and types of kitchen stoves—the lids of which never fit—the diversity of carpet sweepers, hundreds of breakfast foods, and different voltages which render electrical appliances of one borough useless in another. There is no uniformity of ovens, necessitating dozens of pans, they say. The women added that however, there are 100 million sufferers in the domain of domestic economists, and financiers at the session rapidly are coming to agree that tariffs are at the bottom of most of the world's economic ills. The next step will be securing the most far-reaching agreement possible regarding steps to be taken to remove these evils.

Many Hold for Tariff.

Although the delegations may agree that tariff barriers are not desirable, it will be necessary for the governments to give up the revenue of the duties, while infant industries in all probability will protest in most of the countries outside of Europe. Australia, Chile, and Brazil today refused to admit that their tariffs vitally affected the world trade. The Australian delegate, Sir David Gordon, flatly announced that his country would protect its foreign rights and settle its affairs as it believed equal.

He said the dominions would continue granting preferential treatment, especially to the British empire.

Various proposals are emerging from the debates. The United States re-

CHARGES RAILS IN EAST FAVORED BY HIGH RATES

Freight rates on the 15 western railroads have advanced to only half of those that granted eastern and southern lines, it was contended yesterday by A. F. Cleveland, assistant traffic manager of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad.

His statement was made before the federal board of arbitration at the Capitol building, which is considering the demands of western trainmen for a $1 per day wage increase.

"Freight rates on the western carriers have been held down to the relative level," he added. "Vol-umeous statistics were introduced with the view of showing the relative difference in the earnings of the eastern and southern lines with those of the west.

L. E. Wetting, statistical expert, testified that the western roads are far less able to meet a wage increase than eastern and southern carriers, who have granted a 7½ per cent boost to their trainmen.

MEXICO, LARGELY UNWED, URGED TO ADOPT MARRIAGE

Strikes at 400 Years of Family Life Chaos.

BY JOHN CORNIN. (Chicago Tribune Press Service.) (Copyright: 1927: By The Chicago Tribune.)

MEXICO CITY, May 11.—After four centuries of indifference on the part of the church and civil authorities alike, it was announced today that an official nation-wide campaign will be begun immediately to teach the Mexican people the necessity of contracting civil marriage as a fundamental to the development of national life and the creation of sentiment and nationality.

Statistics show nearly seventy per cent of the Mexican people are unmarried either by the church or civil law. With the spread of education and the gradual rise of the lower classes into the middle classes, the neglect of marriage on the part of parents often entails hardships on the children.

Marriage by Church.

In many parts of the republic where the Catholic church is all-powerful in society, marriages among the middle and upper classes are performed only by the church, while the corresponding civil marriage enacted by the law.

Such church marriages are ineffective generally and children by such marriages are illegitimate in the eyes of the law and are incapable of inheriting the property of their parents.

A lawyer close to the government asserted today that a decree would be issued warning all priests against performing marriage ceremonies according to the church ritual without having been assured that the contracting parties had been married according to the civil law. Priests violating the law, he said, will be prosecuted for breaking the law and for fraud.

Old Indian Marriages.

Since the whole machinery of the Aztec and other Indian governments in Mexico was destroyed with the conquest of the country by the Spaniards four centuries ago, the Indians have paid little attention to marriage as instituted by the Europeans.

As the Indians rapidly were deprived of their women and gradually intermarried with the whites and became estranged from white society as well as their laws, they had no interest in legalized marriage. The enslavement of the Indians killed the old Indian marriages whenever the Indians came into contact with the whites and mestizos, who constituted the government class.

Probably not 20 per cent of the Indian and lower class mestizos observe any kind of marriage ceremony today.

Push Campaign in Schools.

This nonmarriage custom rises up like a massive wall against the development of a feeling of nationality, as it has ever done since the days of the conquest four centuries ago. To surmount the wall, all the efforts of the department of education and the activities of the labor unions and educational missionaries, who are constantly circulating among the Indians and mestizos, as well as the state and local governments, are to be pressed into the campaign.

Lectures, moving picture shows, and instruction will be given in all night and day schools to impress upon the pupils the necessity of legal marriage.

Bares Forged Calles Letter Attacking U.S. Ambassador

BY GEORGE SELDES.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Laredo, Tex., May 11.—Of the 300 documents which mysteriously passed between the American embassy in Mexico City and the office of President Calles, and which, it is said, almost brought about a rupture of diplomatic relations between the two countries, one of the most important, ranking after the alleged plans for military invasion, is the letter which was supposed to have been written by President Calles, attacking the United States.

This document, a circular letter purporting to have been sent by Señor Calles to the governors of the Mexican states, has been obtained by Tex Tassawa. It was sold as an original document, bearing on it the name of the governor, rubber stamp showing the date of receipt at the state capital and the initials of each governor.

Charge Part Is False.

According to President Calles following the publication of the document, the letter sent to all governors discussing Mexican internal and external politics, is genuine. They, however, charge that the sensational part of the document is apocryphal. The date is Jan. 1, 1927. The apocryphal part follows:

"The government has had as a consequence the natural resistance and lack of confidence which meet all social innovations and has met internal and external resistance which I am accustomed to, in carrying out my policies and enforcing the citation of the fundamental laws of my country. Unfortunately, the application of the laws has provoked such an agitation and resistance in the interior that it has disturbed the internal peace and public tranquility. It has led to the formation of groups of discontented, especially to activities by the fanatical Catholics, enemies of my government, who have begun a rebellion, supported by American money and attempting to destroy our institutions."

"Unfortunately, many of the means taken by my government for the protection and betterment, for the social interests of the Mexican people have been wrongly interpreted in foreign countries by selfish elements who have given them the appearance of disloyal social actions. They have found a badly interpreted echo in the capitalist American press."

Attack on U. S. Envoy.

"To this is added that some foreign diplomats, who are not aware that the ambassador of the United States, abiding their diplomatic immunity with which they are invested, made a common cause with the enemies of my government. He has manufactured all kinds of intrigues in order to create international difficulties between Mexico and the United States and to bring a state of lack of confidence and bad understanding which would necessarily lead to the rupture of diplomatic relations between these two countries, and this in turn would give an opportunity to the enemies of my administration to organize and to make possible the realization of their iniquitous and dastardly plans."

Lectures, moving picture shows, and instruction will be given in all night and day schools to impress upon the pupils the necessity of legal marriage.

Old Indian Marriages.

Since the whole machinery of the Aztec and other Indian governments in Mexico was destroyed with the conquest of the country by the Spaniards four centuries ago, the Indians have paid little attention to marriage as instituted by the Europeans.

As the Indians rapidly were deprived of their women and gradually intermarried with the whites and became estranged from white society as well as their laws, they had no interest in legalized marriage. The enslavement of the Indians killed the old Indian marriages whenever the Indians came into contact with the whites and mestizos, who constituted the government class.

Probably not 20 per cent of the Indian and lower class mestizos observe any kind of marriage ceremony today.

Push Campaign in Schools.

This nonmarriage custom rises up like a massive wall against the development of a feeling of nationality, as it has ever done since the days of the conquest four centuries ago. To surmount the wall, all the efforts of the department of education and the activities of the labor unions and educational missionaries, who are constantly circulating among the Indians and mestizos, as well as the state and local governments, are to be pressed into the campaign.

Lectures, moving picture shows, and instruction will be given in all night and day schools to impress upon the pupils the necessity of legal marriage.

A REFERENDUM ON PROHIBITION REPEAL.

An amendment to the Weber-O'Grady bill for the repeal of the state prohibition enforcement act requires that it be submitted to the people. Opponents of a continuance of the prohibition experiment should be in favor of that. Test of opinion in popular votes which had no consequences has indicated that the state is wet. That is denied by the prohibitionists and until there is a vote which will have a definite result it can't be.

We are not prepared to admit that people who do not want prohibition have been more willing to vote in these previous elections than the people who do want it, but that has been the prohibition assumption. It cannot be asserted in an election which will present the question of repealing the state enforcement law.

It is important for the future political determination of this question that the position of the states be clearly ascertained. Such a result as would be had on the submitted repeal of the law could not be attacked as inconclusive or indefinite. The prohibitionists want the state law retained and if they cannot keep it Illinois conclusively is opposed to the Volstead act. If it is retained then the talk of Illinois as a wet state at the present time is without authority.

Extremists in prohibition say that the repeal of a state enforcement law is treasonable. That is mere excentism. Even the eighteenth amendment did not deprive the state assemblies of legislative discretion. They still have control of state law. So long as a state retains a prohibition law it has prohibition regardless of what the rest of the nation may do.

In several respects the Illinois law exceeds the federal enforcement law. It does not, as the Indiana law does, prohibit the sale, or whisky on medical prescription, but it has restrictions which are not in the Volstead act.

Unless the prohibitionists want openly to assert themselves for minority control, for the retention of prohibition in spite of majority will, they will accept the chance for a showdown. If the people of this state demand the continuance of their own prohibition law it will remain after the election and at least for the time being the wet will be beaten and silenced. Their argument will be taken away from them. We do not the moral right of Kansas to impose a manner of life on New York, but not the right of New York to decide for itself. It is the federal control of this question which violates the primary principles of American government and is obtained outside the true purpose of the constitution. This proposed referendum would show what Illinois wants for itself.

THE GAS TAX IN WISCONSIN.
The Wisconsin senate has voted to raise the gasoline tax from two cents to four and the Illinois opponents of the tax probably will soon do the same from the gas tax in Springfield. Wisconsin's aim is to put one part of the cost of roads and their maintenance on the tourist travel from other states. This traffic is valuable to the state and is welcomed there. It fills the roads, woods, camps and resorts of Wisconsin during the entire outing season. Roads have been made into the furthermost parts of the state for it. The old wilderness of spruce, pine, and balsam and lakes is opened up for it. The tax is not a deterrent but a means by which this traffic bears a part of the cost of the roads it needs.

For the Wisconsin motorist a compensation for the increased gas tax is offered in reduction of his other automobile taxes. One section of the state is not being drained of money for use in other parts. The Wisconsin rural districts have not suffered Milwaukee and jack rolled it to get money for roads in the sticks. Chicago has not complained as a city against the large bond issues for road building, although this money has been used everywhere except here. The objection is against taxing the fuel supply used in intramural traffic for roads in Egypt.

GETTING AFTER THE MOSQUITO.

At the request of west side suburbs the sanitary district board has voted $25,000 to be used in mosquito extermination. This summer pest is one of the great liabilities of life in the pleasant Chicago countryside, endured for years as unavoidable. It restricts full enjoyment of the finest months of the year and drives people behind screens when complete freedom would give them their lawns and gardens.

American engineering proved in Panama that mosquitoes could be kept out of a region, but the first attempts to do something in a small scale for local communities seemed to prove that the work required nothing less than army engineering and army discipline. It has been found since that local efforts can be made successful by being thorough and by covering enough territory. Mosquito breeding can be checked and great relief given. Louis Bokstein's organization at Ravinia park has protected the audiences at this great open air opera. The park in the woods with the marshes to the west was a rich hunting ground for mosquitoes, which could poison the charm of an evening there. They have been suppressed to the vanishing point.

It is not now believed that the pest is an unavoidable torment in the enjoyment. Bokstein's efforts will not get results, but well directed and thorough work can be relied on for relief.

THE MURDERERS ARE UNANIMOUS.

Mrs. Snyder and Judge Gray have been sentenced to death. Both tried to escape that penalty, the woman with particular vindictiveness, by getting it for the other, each trying, and the woman with real hope to gain life imprisonment. She has been in a physical collapse since she heard the verdict.

A Chicago runner of Canadian beer and whisky was stopped by a Michigan policeman. He offered the policeman a bribe of $100 to allow him to go.

The policeman refused. Then the runner shot and killed him. He was arrested in Chicago and confessed. He said he was sorry he had shot an honest man and that he was willing to go back to Michigan and take his punishment.

He cannot be hanged for that crime in Michigan. The killer may be sorry, but he is not as sorry as he would be if the crime might require his own life.

The recent Michigan legislature, refusing to restore capital punishment, kept the terror out of Michigan law for murderers.

Little Fernandes, the ratlike murderer, who has his jailers constantly uneasy, was under sentence of death and also under sentence to the penitentiary for robbery. When the Supreme court ordered a new trial on the murder charge the killer was elated to consider that he might escape with nothing but a long penitentiary sentence for robbery.

They do not like the rope. Life in the penitentiary is a release from the real penalties of the law. Leob and Leopold found it so, and Clarence Darrow fought to get it for them. There may be much argument among law abiding citizens as to capital punishment, but there is none among murderers. They are one and all opposed to it.

THE AMERICAN FLIGHT.

Myron T. Herrick, the American ambassador to France, cabled the state department that the French would misinterpret an American attempt to make the trans-Atlantic flight at this moment, when they were dejected by the news of Nungesser and Coli. Mr. Herrick advised that the flight be delayed until French sentiment was different.

That is not precisely what would be expected of people so responsive to the call of danger and glory as the French. It might have been thought that they would find in the attempt of the Americans not a discourtesy to the French flyers but a brave disregard of the perils. It is true that the flyers of the two nations are in competition for this honor, and that accomplishment will be of personal advantage to the men who take the risk, but the rivalry was generous, as the rivalry of the brave should be.

"THERE AIN'T NO SUCH ANIMULE."

Senator Meents has introduced a bill to repeal the act under which quo warranto proceedings could be begun to question the right of a constitutional officer of the state to occupy his office and conduct its affairs. Meents introduces the governor's bills and it is admitted that this is one of them. If Small is required under the Supreme court opinion as to his accountability to return public funds withheld from the state treasury he will have been indicated as having failed to account properly for trust funds when he was state treasurer. Upon that he can be asked in court to show that he is not ineligible for state office, unless the legislature repeals the law. That is the purpose of the Meents bill.

After Small was acquitted of the embezzlement charge he rewarded some of the jurors, court attaches, and others who had promoted his defense in various ways with state jobs.

After he was held responsible by the Supreme court for the funds which had been the basis of the criminal action against him he endeavored to defeat the first one of the judges who was a candidate for reelection and punish him for this decision by removing him from the bench. By the use of his political power as governor he nearly succeeded in this.

Now he endeavors to protect himself by repealing the law under which he might be proceeded against and declared ineligible to hold the governor's office.

MARRYING CANADIAN GIRL.
Chicago, May 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—The marriageable age for girls in Canada is 16. A Canadian girl, age 19, in this province, [1] could her parents have the marriage annulled? [2] If the marriage was performed in North Dakota, where the age for girls is 18, would she not become an American citizen? [3] Could her parents have that marriage annulled if she entered the United States intent on marrying and did not come through the immigration? [4] Suppose she entered the United States, legally, on a visit to North Dakota, and married an American while visiting, could she be deported after the marriage?

R. M. In your second sentence you state that the marriage was performed in Saskatchewan and in your fourth sentence you say it was performed in North Dakota. I

1. While it has been our observation, at least according to newspaper reports, that annulments are often secured upon facts which we would not regard as sufficient, we are of the opinion that annulment is not legally proper upon either version of your facts.

2. Marriage to an American does not make a woman an American citizen under present law.

JOYCE KILMER'S TREES.

Beyond the little valley where I live is a great wood that spreads like a fan, and its hills are set with a hundred stately trees; today I walked there, and as I ascended to the crest I came upon the pearl of greatest price—the sure, sweet signals of returning life after the funeral of winter; after the fires of spring burned on a score of hillsides and the earth seemed vibrant and expectant of the first touch of the human hand's plow, the great elm, the great oaks and oaks, which men believed were dead, were a flotilla of colors at their tops, and they whispered to one another in the new wonder of their resurrection; but the thorn tree—the tree of great repentence—seemed scarcely alive save for little drops of gold on its red limb near its heavy thorns; for there is a legend that the thorn tree is last to leaf because careless men once pierced the bough of a young god with its stinging lances, and the goddess of spring to touch its rising thorns held back. FLOOD CONTROL.

Chicago, May 1—The river from St. Louis to the Gulf should be dredged.

This can be done by dredging out of its bed the immovable trees that the floods have uprooted and lodged in the channel, causing sandbars and sandbars, rendering the river wider and shallower and impeding navigation when at a low stage.

From time to time, when forests are uprooted and cleared, the trees should be piled in the river to replenish the water of the river when at a low stage. Such a system of reservoirs should be duplicated on the upper waters of all the big tributaries of the Mississippi.

FEAR EPIDEMIC OF SMALLPOX IN FLOODED TOWN

Girl Flies to Natchez for Vaccine.

Natchez, Miss., May 11.—(AP)—Smallpox has broken out among flood refugees of the Bayou river and of Louisiana, and an epidemic is threatened. Miss Winifred Calahan, Red Cross relief worker, drove today when she arrived here by seaplane to get vaccine and anti-typhoid serum.

Miss Calahan will return to the section tomorrow with 10,000 smallpox vaccination points and 10,000 units of typhoid prophylaxis. She said twenty Negroes suffering from smallpox were discovered at Dalleys Landing in Franklin parish. The Negroes were marooned in the second story of a house there.

Levee Still Holds.

New Orleans, La., May 11.—(AP)—Mississippi flood waters, reassembling from the northeastern Louisiana lowlands to advance upon the south central portion of the state, tonight still failed to find a penetrable spot in the levee along the Bayou des Glaises section.

Local levee board officials said that the embankments would hold and they massed workmen in a desperate fight to hold back the sweeping waters.

Naval aviators who flew over the section reported, however, that they believed the workmen have practically lost their fight to save the Bayou des Glaises levee as the water had reached the top of the boards behind which they were placing sandbags.

Red Cross Asks More Money.

Washington, D. C., May 11.—(Special)—Red Cross officials announced tonight that the $10,000,000 minimum flood relief fund has been oversubscribed by more than $100,000. It was emphasized at general headquarters, however, that this fund will be insufficient to care for all flood relief work.

All Red Cross chapters have been urged to exceed their original quota.

Chicago, with $770,000 Fund, Aims at Million for the Flood Sufferers

Chicago is over the top and still going strong.

Contributions of more than $50,000 received in the last twenty-four hours yesterday carried the city triumphantly over the last hurdle separating it from the $750,000 quota set for the relief of flood sufferers in the Mississippi valley.

The influx of donations, however, did not stop there. Such was the momentum of the day's giving that last night found Chicago $20,000 beyond its quota and headed for the million dollar mark.

$770,925 Thus Far.

The contributions received yesterday at Association of Commerce headquarters brought the mark last night up to $690,722.54, where it halted for the day. Mayor Thompson's fund was boosted to a new high record of $71,134, making the actual cash received to date $770,925. And the end is not yet.

Chief among the contributions that put the fund over its goal were those of the members of the Chicago Jewelers' association, amounting to $2,268.55

the employees of the Western Electric company Hawthorne works, $3,200.00;

the Oak Park branch of the Chicago

Bank and Trust Co., $1,000;

Mr. Francis Nealon's $1,000; Winona Congregational church, $151.44; employees of the Auditorium theater, $422; Illinois conference of Evangelical Lutheran churches, $416.73; the Hyde Park Baptist church, $409.68, and the Belden Mfg. company, $400.

Dawes' Appeal Big Help.

Vice President Charles G. Dawes' appeal for the flood fund, over radio station WCFL on Tuesday night, brought in a check for $1,000 from division 20, Street and Electric Hall, Chicago, where a car men's branch, to the station, where it was sent on to the Red Cross.

Teachers and pupils of the Chicago public schools turned in an additional gift of $3,924.67 yesterday to the mayoral fund, making their gifts to date, $6,223.24. The Chicago Master

Cleaners and Dryers sent $1,114.50;

the Hotel Statler, $1,000; the Chinese forwarded $100 as did the Contracting and Material company.

Employees in the administrative offices of the board of education have contributed $3,378.75 to Mayor Thompson's fund for the relief of flood suffers. It was announced yesterday by President Walter J. Raymer.

Other contributions made yesterday by Red Cross officials to the fact that although some 325,000 refugees from the flooded regions are now in the care or under the supervision of that organization, at least 100,000 more will be added to that number if the levees below Baton Rouge breaks, and that in any case, the $10,000,000 asked for relief will not do more than meet the present needs, with nothing left over for rehabilitation work.

A benefit performance for the flood relief fund will be staged tonight at the Logan Square theater, 3545 Milwaukee avenue, under the auspices of the Sons of Norway lodges of Cook county, of which E. G. Gythfeldt is president. A 12 piece orchestra will play the Norwegian Club of 50 voices will sing, and Judge Bernard P. Raman and the Rev. Conrad Engelstad will speak. Admission will be $1.

Radio station WMAZ.

Chicago's famous police octet, tonight in a program for the benefit of the fund, will be at the theater.

KERENSKY HELPS STIFFEN U. M. W. WAR ON SOVIETS

Addresses Federation's Executive Council.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 11.—[Special to the Tribune.]—It is unlikely that the American Federation of Labor will alter its present stand against United States recognition of the soviet government in Russia, the executive council of the federation, in session here, will give consideration this week to all phases of the special report on the subject made by Alexander Kerensky.

The jazz lovers get a immediate sensation. The stimulates them but the soon wears off. Popular is immediately understood, it repeats, it becomes at earthen and then intolerable. ### FORD DECLINES TO SUBMIT SAPIRO SUIT TO ARBITRATION

Detroit, Mich., May 11.—[Special to the Tribune.]—Complainant Henry Ford in the $1,000,000 libel suit of Aaron Sapiro against the motor king have declined a proposal that the case be withdrawn from federal court and submitted for settlement by the arbitration committee of the Detroit board of commerce.

The two sides today were correspondence which has passed between H. A. Harrington, secretary of the committee, and attorneys for both sides was made public.

The only stipulation placed upon the proposal by Sapiro's attorney was that the arbitration hearing be open to the public. In a letter to Harrington, William H. Gandy, chief of the plaintiff's counsel, wrote: "You doubtless understand that our action is based upon false publications concerning Mr. Sapiro. One effect of bringing the suit is the opportunity to give the world the true facts. That opportunity my client cannot afford to sacrifice."

The trial suit was delayed after Mrs. Constance Hoffman, a woman juror, had given an interview to a Detroit newspaper. A hearing to set a date for a new trial will be held July 1.

STORM DEATHS IN POPLAR BLUFF INCREASE TO 101

New Melbourne Hotel Tomb of 24.

Poplar Bluff, Mo., May 11.—(AP)—Poplar Bluff tonight began to bury its storm dead. Ten funerals were held, although the majority were arranged for tomorrow and the next day.

The number of known killed tonight had increased to 101, while the seriously injured stood near the 100 mark.

Search of the ruins of the Riverside hotel disclosed two bodies.

Hotel Tomb of 24.

The New Melbourne hotel was the tomb of its proprietor, Mrs. Mat Smith, and two of her daughters.

One of Opal Sherrill, a guest, closed one of the most dramatic incidents of the catastrophe. She lay in the ruins with the water creeping up about her body for nine hours while rescuers worked through the floors above to release her.

Commander of a regular army officer was effected tonight to replace two companies of the militia.

Arkansas Death List Stands at 70.

Little Rock, Ark., May 11.—(AP)—Relief work in the tornado-swept areas of Arkansas was placed upon a systematic basis today and reports from the various communities indicated that hundreds of injured and homeless had been aided.

The known dead remained at 70 tonight while the number of injured ran well above 300.

GIBRALTAR, May 11.—It is reported from Tangier that fighting between British, French and Franco-Spanish forces continues in Morocco. The British destroyers Terrible and Splendid and French and Spanish gunboats are patrolling the coast.

U. S. STARTS 800 MORE MARINES FOR NICARAGUA

Latimer May Need Force to Bring About Peace.

Washington, D. C., May 11.—(AP)—Four hundred marines sailed today from Quantico, Va., for Nicaragua, while that many more waited to embark for that republic at Charleston, S. C., and Port-a-Prince, Haiti.

The navy department was advised by Rear Admiral Latimer that he had warned armed forces in Nicaragua to surrender their arms peacefully or submit to disarmament by force. Possibility that force might be required caused the admiral to ask for the additional 800 marines, whose arrival in Nicaragua will give him about 3,000 officers and men.

In addition to the 400 men who sailed from Quantico late today on the repair ship Medusa, an aviation detachment and six airplanes left that station earlier in the day on the tender Aroostook. The Medusa was ordered to call at Charleston for 100 men from the Paris Island station.

Will Send Airplanes.

The submarine tender Argonne was on its way today from Panama to Port-a-Prince, to take 300 marines to Corinto, and an aviation detail, with three airplanes, was standing by at San Diego, Cal., under orders to proceed to Nicaragua by commercial transportation.

Admiral Latimer's warning to disarm will be broadcast tomorrow throughout Nicaragua in Spanish and English.

The latest turn in the Nicaraguan situation brought a statement today from Senator La Follette [Rep., Wis.].

annulling the policy of the administration in Central America.

To Pay $10 for Each Gun.

NICARAGUA, Nicaragua, May 11.—(AP)—Liberal soldiers who turn over their arms to United States marines are to receive $10 for each rifle or machine gun. The money will be paid by the Conservative government.

The first antagonistic act since the truce in the civil warfare occurred yesterday at Chinandega. A band of former troops under Gen. Caballero, who calls himself a Liberal, but who is described by the Liberals as a bandit, entered the outskirts of Chinandega, killing a half dozen natives, wounding others and plundering. They fled before the arrival of marines.

RUSSIANS FORGET HATE FOR JEWS UNDER RED RULE

Semites Now Welcomed Into Gentile Families.

This is another of a series of articles by Mr. Kopman revealing conditions in Soviet Russia. Mr. Kopman is a native of Russia, lived there many years, and returned there a few years ago as a commercial traveler. After a year or two he was imprisoned, but later was released. Mr. Kopman today continues yesterday's article on the problem of the Jew in Russia.

BY AARON KOPMAN.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, May 11.—Let us visit Bernstein, an old friend of mine, a former Orthodox rabbi, a Jewish merchant in a small town in the Ukraine. You notice a tall, healthy blonde boy sitting down to dinner with us. An alien face in the family. Bernstein notices you watching the boy and the amazed look in your eyes. He begins to excuse himself for the degeneration of his Rabbinical family. He calls you a "poor Raisin."

That boy is my Raisin's grandson. They just married a couple of months ago. Well, what can you do with children nowadays? After all he is not as bad as I thought he would be. He loves my Raisin and since he licked some of those Comsosols for throwing stones at me in the street I am left alone when I walk. Before he married into the family I could not get along with being hit a couple of times. He also is secretary of the Isopolkom [local executive committee] and has stopped drinking since he married.

Migrated from Spain.

"Poor Bernstein," you will think. "Why did some of your race allow themselves to be devoured in flames kindled by the Auto-de-fe [Inquisition]. Why did your great great grandfathers migrate from Spain, Castle and Portugal?" Why did all of your people endure the massacres and pogroms of the czar government? Why?

But his excuses, and his argument settle the question as far as you are concerned. You don't have to look for any reason. He is an engineer. But many years ago this same Bernstein declared a boycott on Baruch Alter and was even agitating that the rabbi and the community should place the ban on him because Alter had defamed the Jewish race by permitting his daughter, after she had married, to keep her hair; not to mention the fact after the Jewish tradition and put on a wig. Now one of his daughters is married to a Gentile boy and another has left her husband and child and is living with a Gentile student in Moscow.

Gentile Girl Weds Jew.

Back in the Urals you will call on a farmer, Timothy Semenoff, with a reputation as an anti-Semite, a former member of the Black Hundreds, a former agitator for Jewish massacres. Not that he had ever had anything to do with Jews that made him dislike them. In fact, the only Jews he ever saw was when he served in the army and was stationed in Leningrad and met a couple of regimental contractors and thought they were Russians. It was just the custom, encouraged by the government and blessed by the church, for the good Russian to be a Jew-baiter and Jew-hater.

Again there is the long dinner table. Only this time there are strong big boys and girls of different ages. But among them you will notice a small, delicate, but good looking, Jewish boy. Semenoff, too, will notice you stare and wonder, and will tell you apologetically:

"That is Senka, my Dunia's husband. She married him six months ago. He is a very nice boy, sober and does not beat her. Dunia loves him; is simply crazy about him."

And again you think: "Poor Semenoff."

When foot troubles come beauty goes.

This constant source of aching feet doesn't simply take the beauty out of a woman's walk. It takes it out of her face... and out of her life.

You can't be active and fresh if your feet are leaden and fagged out. The persistent ache seeps into your system—dragging at your energy. You suffer—your health suffers—your looks suffer. Duties go undone. Your children get no cheery companionship. Your husband finds you the victim of "nervousness."

Yet it is needless to let aching feet ruin your life. Thousands of men and women have found quick and permanent relief by wearing Ground Gripper Shoes. The three corrective features, found only in these shoes, remove the main cause of most foot troubles and allow Nature to re-establish the normal health and vigor that your feet should have. The art of The Spring Line, the Edge, the Flexible Arch, the Patented Rotor Heel.

Try on a pair today at the Ground Gripper store. The quick relief will delight you.

noff. Where is your anti-Semitism now? Where is your war cry, "Kill the Jews and save holy Russia"? Here you have a Jew of your own. He doesn't beat Dunia, indeed. Why, Dunia with one blow of her fist, could knock him out."

No Longer Observe Sabbath.

Arriving at a small railroad station in the Ukraine, a Jewish town where a decade ago it was a different story, a boy or a girl carrying a cane or an umbrella on the Sabbath they would proclaim his or her sin loudly and seek to have the ban put on them, you are greeted by a Jewish cabman and today is also the Sabbath. You can't believe your eyes. But wait a little. Over in the fields there are Jewish and gentile boys and girls working together digging beets. Well, you think, those are all Comsosols. But no, they are the town folk. In the town a good looking middle aged Jewish man will show you to her best room and ask you if you do not want some tea. Tea on Sabbath! Why years ago it was considered a sin to light a fire on that day. She brings in the samovar and you will ask her what has come over this little corner of the world.

She replies the change took place so long ago that she does not remember. As far as she is concerned she never has worked on Sabbath. She never paid any attention to such foolishness. Of course, she is lying and does not know that you recognize her.

know the town, and frequently visited it twenty years ago. Then, after you have heard enough stretching of the long-horn, you remark:

"Look here, Rachel, you don't recognize me, but I used to see you frequently years ago. I stopped here when this tavern was conducted by your father. I was a student in St. Petersburg, and you were a beautiful girl of eighteen. You were even afraid to talk to me in the street because I shaved and smoked cigarettes on Saturday. Every time I spoke to you on the porch you asked me to enter the house so the neighbors would not see."

When Will U. S. Revolt?

Then you will visit Mischa Nachum, the patriarch of the town. He, too, does not recognize you, for he is an old man now. But when you introduce yourself, he is happy to see you. He will talk of politics [an unheard of thing before], who was elected to the political body in Moscow, and to above off he will tell you he was elected chairman of the First of May committee, which arranged entertainment for the townfolk and countryside. He is very tired, for he was out late last night to the Comedy [a propaganda political movie from Moscow he calls a "comedy"], and that Arsenieff, the head of the village trade union, made a remarkable speech.

Armenieff you recall as the man who used to steal your pigeons. He runs the village today. You feel like Rip

Van Winkle. It is a remarkable sensation, the same village, but a new one, many of the same people, but they are new. You look up Arsenieff, who lives in the house of the former squire. He has already heard of your arrival in town. Arsenieff draws you away for a quiet glass of tea. More politics: when will the revolution occur in America and when will America loan Russia some money?

Religion Really.

From time to time American self-styled investigators visit Russia. Not one word of Russian, or of Russian traditions, customs, their mode of life, these men visit Moscow and Leningrad with a special interpreter furnished by the cheka, and in a few weeks become first class authorities in their own minds.

Let me then refresh your memory. You will visit Mischa Nachum, the patriarch of the town. He, too, does not recognize you, for he is an old man now. But when you introduce yourself, he is happy to see you. He will talk of politics [an unheard of thing before], who was elected to the political body in Moscow, and to above off he will tell you he was elected chairman of the First of May committee, which arranged entertainment for the townfolk and countryside. He is very tired, for he was out late last night to the Comedy [a propaganda political movie from Moscow he calls a "comedy"], and that Arsenieff, the head of the village trade union, made a remarkable speech.

MAID TESTIFIES OF FIST FIGHT FATAL TO ACTOR

Los Angeles, Cal., May 11.—(AP)—Paul Kelly, movie athlete-actor, was the aggressor in the fight with Ray Raymond, musical comedy star, which the state charges resulted in Raymond's death. Emma Lee, Negro maid, testified today in Kelly's murder trial. The witness, a maid in the Raymond home, said the film actor struck the first blow. She pictured Raymond as almost helpless before the fury of Kelly's assault.

Struck Raymond in Face.

Kelly hit Raymond in the face four or five times, while he held his opponent's head with one arm around the neck, Miss Lee testified. She said Kelly struck the last blow as he let go of Raymond, with which the actor fell against a table.

The two men quarreled over Raymond's wife, Dorothy Mackaye, stage actress, the state alleges.

Raymond was found unconscious the next morning on the floor beside his bed from which he had fallen, Miss Lee related. He was lying on his back and breathing unnaturally, she added.

Autopsy Surgeon A. F. Wagner testified that Raymond died mainly of a brain hemorrhage caused by violence. He testified there had been no evidence of disease.

Woman Quits Jury.

Supreme Judge Charles Burnett announced that a Negro alternate juror who was chosen yesterday would not replace a woman juror who had been taken ill. This left the body which will decide the fate of Kelly composed of eight women and four men.

JURY, 5 MEMBERS WOMEN, FIND A SLAYER GUILTY

Newton, N. J., May 11.—(AP)—Justice, administered by a jury of five women and seven men, was returned today with a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree, returned against Frank Van Sickle, self styled "love slave" who said he slew his cousin, Edward Raiser, because Mrs. Raiser, his paramour, so willed. Van Sickle was sentenced to state prison for the remainder of his life by Justice Black of the Supreme court. The verdict was read by Mrs. Ethel De Pue of Newton, the first woman to preside over a jury at a murder trial in New Jersey.

at the service of McCall Street... authorities on child care, nutrition and training

ONE of the vital influences of McCall's Magazine in more than 2,140,000 homes is the work which McCall's is doing to help the modern mother raise healthy, vigorous, well-trained children.

The proper care of children, the proper nutrition, and the proper direction of their habits and behavior—are problems that McCall's is constantly shedding light upon through some of the foremost authorities on these important subjects.

Each month in McCall's there appears a special article from the pen of the eminent child specialist and pediatrician, Dr. Charles Gilmore Kerley of New York. Dr. Kerley as consulting physician in numerous hospitals for the treatment of children's diseases is one of the great humanitarians of the medical profession, and his skill is daily bringing health and happiness to scores of children.

Fortunate indeed are the mothers on McCall Street to have the frequent help and counsel of this great physician. Dr. Kerley's articles in McCall's deal with child care, nutrition and psychology, and are of immeasurable assistance to thousands of perplexed parents on McCall Street. Associated with Dr. Kerley in this work for McCall's is Mrs. Helen Johnson Keyes. Mrs. Keyes comes of a family of well-known physicians and surgeons, and is the mother of three children herself. She is the author of two of McCall's most helpful booklets, "The Friendly Mother" and "The Friendly Baby." Mrs. Keyes's special province is to correspond with the mothers and prospective mothers on McCall Street, and as one mother to another, to convey the most up-to-date information on all matters pertaining to child health, care and development.

Another authority who contributes each month to McCall's is Dr. E. V. McCollum, who has done more than any other American to advance the knowledge of food values, and is known all over the world as one of the discoverers of the Fourth Vitamin. It is the lack of this vitamin in the diet which on children's diseases

There are two sides of McCall Street—the well-known thoroughfare where the 2,140,000 readers of McCall's Magazine live. One is the Romantic side—the other, the Practical side. The former meets woman's desire to escape from herself and her surroundings... this is the Fiction side. The latter meets the practical side of her world that she must face daily—foods, clothes, home management, children, etc. This is the Service side of McCall's.

is responsible for faulty bone structure, a disease that attacks the children of the well-to-do as well as those of the poor.

No problem that the parent encounters is harder to fathom than the psychology of the child mind. The parent who wishes to train his child wisely and well, often has need of professional advice.

McCall's is particularly fortunate in being able to supply this advice through Angelo Patri, author and consulting educator of New York. Mr. Patri has been teacher and principal in the public schools and high schools of New York for twenty-nine years; and, through his contacts with hundreds of thousands of children of all ages, has achieved a profound understanding of the child mind.

Mr. Patri has written many books on the subject of child training and is known all over the United States. Since becoming a regular contributor to McCall's, Mr. Patri has won the gratitude of hundreds of McCall Street parents who have found his suggestions based on a deep knowledge of the subject and thoroughly practical in every respect.

The notable work which McCall's is doing through these distinguished specialists has been warmly welcomed on McCall Street. It is one of the strongest ties that bind the interest of 2,140,000 families to this alert magazine.

OSMAND, SANDE UP, WINS; BUT HE LACKS COURAGE

Derby Test Proves Discouraging.

BY FRENCH LANE
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)
Lexington, Ky., May 11.—Unlucky Harry Sande is the super-ridder of all the world and the super-actor of all the turf, Osmond, the horse on which hundreds of thousands of dollars were wagered to win the Kentucky Derby, has no chance to triumph in that great American turf classic before Saturday.

Osmond won the Wetterson handicap over the Downs course this afternoon by a nose from Jock, another Derby candidate. But in victory Osmond disgraced himself, unless Sande timed that finish so narrowly that his victory was in doubt until the official numbers were hung out.

Makes Slow Time.

The Wetterson handicap was at a mile and a sixteenth, three sixteenths of a mile less than Osmond will be asked to go Saturday. He had only mediocre horses behind him today. In time, however, he will go against horses that will run him ragged at every step of the journey. Osmond was feeling that distress which Osmond showed all down through the stretch.

It was Osmond from start to finish in the Wetterson. Sande broke him on top and kept him there, but never at any stage of the journey did Osmond appear to be a decent winner. Only Sande knew whether Osmond was driving all he had today, Sande didn't reveal those secrets tonight.

Neither did Pete Coyne, who trains Osmond, have any comment to make. Sande only said he would be astiride Osmond when they parade to the post Saturday afternoon.

After scoring the eyelash victory, Osmond was worked out over the track, which was a mile and a sixteenth, in 2:07 1-5. The track was more than a second slow. Osmond's time was good. The workout made it seem that Osmond is better than his race indicated.

Other Derby hopes were blasted in this hollow victory, that Osmond was won. Jock's showing was impressive if Osmond is really a great horse. If Osmond is the quiet that he looked to be, Jock isn't much.

Fred Jr. Is Third.

Fred Jr. was third. This is the Chicago horse that graduated from the racing ranks in a single night last winter. He didn't have any entries to offer for his defeat by Osmond and Jock. He got away good, raced near the leaders throughout that famous stretch run of his, which his backers were shouting about, was missing when the real issue came.

While those colts were putting on their show, the big train from the year past in training the brilliant 8 year olds from Maryland which struggled for a $50,000 prize in the Preakness Monday.

Bostonian, the winner of the Preakness, walked off his car, shook his steady head, laid back his ears, took a look at Churchill Downs and seemed to want to say, "Bring on the competition. I've got it over as quickly as possible."

From the same car came Whiskery, the other Harry Payne Whitney horse, which ran Scapa Flow to submission in the Preakness. Scapa Flow was unloaded from another car half a minute later and, as he was led from his car to his stable, Bostonian turned and followed his lead.

Others to come in from the east were Black Panther, fourth in the Preakness; Saxon, which helped Whiskery carry on the fight against Scapa Flow in the early stages of that race; Boddy Bauer, who was last in the Preakness, and Fair Play, the only horse by Whiskery, Du Pont Jr., the power magnate of Delaware.

Kummer, Whiskery's Rider, Ruled Off Pimlico Track
Baltimore, Md., May 11.—(Special)—Kummer, who rode Harry Payne Whitney's Whiskery to third place in the Preakness, was suspended today for the remainder of the meeting by the stewards who gave rough riding yesterday as the reason. It is understood Mark Pater will succeed Kummer as Whiskery's pilot in the Derby at Churchill Downs on Saturday.

Young Ed Walsh Wins Game for Notre Dame
South Bend, Ind., May 11.—(Special)—Young Ed Walsh, son of the own hall fame over Eddie Foy, took this afternoon in the 11th inning. The score was 4 to 2. Joe Sullivan, son of the other member of the famous White Sox battery of a team of years ago, starred at second base.

St. Viatore Beats Millikin for Fifth Straight Victory
Kankakee, Ill., May 11.—(Special)—St. Viatore, the baseball team won its fifth consecutive conference victory today by defeating James Millikin, 4 to 2. Harrington for St. Viatore, our eleven Millikin batsmen. The game was called in the seventh inning by agreement.

BALBOA BEATS A FAST FIELD IN AURORA FEATURE

Moves Up in Stretch to Win by 1 1/2 Lengths.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Aurora, Ill., May 11.—Balboa, the fleet 1 year old son of Balboa, won a fast field of eight in the championship feature race at the Aurora track, feature number on today's card at Exposition park. Backed into favoritism by the large mid-week crowd of near 5,000, Balboa, always in a contending position, moved up with a rush in the stretch and won going away from Dimples Dunkle by a length and a half.

Balboa was easily the best of the eight to face the barrier and the favorite went took advantage of the good thing by forcing its odds down to one and a half to one. Each winning ticket paid $5 in the $2 mutuels. Anton Cernik, president of the county board, was on hand to cheer the winner and present a large floral piece to the horse's owner.

F. Seremba was up on Balboa and was almost caught asleep as Dimples Dunkle, a long shot, put on a burst of speed in the stretch and won.

Balboa looked around in time and seeing his long lead dwindle, shook up his mount, who responded with renewed speed.

Players of the favorites fared well despite the wretched condition of the track, which is still heavy after Monday's deluge. Cheap horses paraded to the post in every race except the Cernik handicap, but the players seemed able to have their money on the right horses.

My Destination sent the players of long shots off to a good start by winning as he pleased in the second number. Keeping his mount in a contending position until the stretch, when he took the lead, Jockey L. McClair piloted My Destination home at the juicy price of $4.60.

CORN MOVES UP ON COVERING AS WHEAT DECLINES

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

General short covering was in corn, and prices advanced 3 1/2¢ to 4¢ from the early low with short loss orders uncovered on the way up and the close was at net gains of 1 1/2¢ to 2 1/2¢, with September showing the least advance. May finished at 31 1/2¢, July at 38 1/2¢ to 39 1/2¢, and September at 40 1/2¢ to 41 1/2¢. Press reports from Springfield, Ill., indicated that the Kossinger bid had less chance of passing induced local professionals to operate with a greater degree of confidence.

Wheat was under pressure throughout the day, due to better weather conditions in the spring wheat territory for seeding, and the close was 16 1/2¢ lower after a range of 14 1/2¢ to 18 1/2¢ for the day, with May at 31 1/2¢ to 31 1/4¢, July at 31 1/2¢, and September at 32 1/2¢. Oats were 3 1/2¢ higher, with May 48 1/2¢, July 49 1/2¢, and September 49 1/2¢. Rye lost 3 1/2¢, with May at 10 1/2¢, July 10 1/4¢, and September 9 1/2¢.

Local Short Buy Corn.

Corn was dull and slightly easier in the early trading, but the surplus in the pit was steadily absorbed by local operators, and around noon heavy buying, headed by Howell, made its appearance and found offerings limited and caused the bulge. Stop loss orders were light and sellers of offers were forced to provide bids. There was nothing in the general run of news to account for the upturn. Howell was credited with buying corn and selling wheat on a large scale, which helped depress the latter grain. Weather conditions over the belt were more favorable for field work. Spot bids here were 4 1/2¢ higher as compared with May.

Export Demand Only Fair.

Little attention was paid to somewhat less favorable crop reports from parts of the southwest, with Headley by talk and with the Illinois Central, 100 1/2¢ in Chicago, while Liverpool was 50¢ lower. The market was 16 1/2¢ to 18 1/2¢ higher, the latter on October, while Minneapolis lost 4 1/2¢. Liverpool showed strength early, but closed 14 1/2¢ lower.

Oats showed a firm underwriting, with a good class of commission house buying in the July, and there was also investment buying in evidence. The northwest was a seller early, and there was also pressure from spreaders who were buying in other markets. Crop reports were generally favorable.

Wheat was held with relatively narrow limits, with market dominated to some extent by the action of wheat. While Germany was reported as after rye at the seaboard, no sales of consequence were reported.

CASH-GRAIN N E W S

There was 200,000 to 200,000 bu wheat sold for export in all positions at the seaboard, including Manitoba, durum, red winter, and Durum spring, and exporters reported difficulty in getting refunds on Durum spring overnight. Rye sales were small, although Germany was asking for offers.

Hours of cash grain prices in leading markets follow:

DECLINE IN STEEL PRODUCTION AND DEMAND SHOWN

BY O. A. MATHER.

Both demand and production of steel continue on a diminishing scale. The midweek steel reviews report this situation for the first ten days of this month just as the monthly report of United States Steel corporation on Tuesday showed a declining tendency during last month from the peak of March.

"So far this month new orders and specifications together call for about as much rolled steel as in the first ten days of April, but mills are for adjusting operations to an expected reduced demand paralleling the trend last year, in which July was the low point," the Iron Age says.

Operations in the Pittsburgh and nearby districts are put at 70 per cent of capacity, against 80 per cent two weeks ago. Some recessions are reported in the east and in the Chicago district.

Prices Are No Lower.

Lacking many single purchases, the market appears quiet, but this comes in part from comparison with its usual period. There is increasingly close ordering for needs. A survey of consuming industries points to a rapid change in the large diversified consumption shown by the statistics of shipments. Prices are no lower, than they have been."

Statistics of production reveal a robustness that is exceeded by hand to mouth buying," the Iron Age says. "In each month since January steel has been made than in comparable month of last year. With the year one-third gone, cumulative production of steel is only 1% per cent under the similar period of 1926. Steel works operations this week average 82 per cent of capacity. Pig iron continues dull and weak."

N. Y. Bonds Sold at Premium.

Additional evidences of vast reserves of American capital seeking investment and an indication that money rates will remain easy for a protracted period appear yesterday. The city of New York sold $60,000,000 of its 4 per cent obligations at a premium of $729,442 to a banking syndicate, which will offer them publicly today.

The price paid for the city's corporate stock and bonds puts them on a 2.92 per cent yield basis. This is the first time in 15 years, or since 1909, that New York City has been able to sell its obligations below a 4 per cent basis. Proceeds from the $142,400,000 corporate stock issue will be used for railroad, water supply, dock improvement, and other municipal purposes, while proceeds from the $17,800,000 serial bonds will be used for school construction.

Porto Rico Sugar Mels.

The South Porto Rico Sugar company announced its long expected melon yesterday. The directors voted to change the common stock from 125 shares of $100 par value to 1,200,000 shares of $100 par value. Each stockholder, except for stockholders of record, such as the share, offer stockholders about 27% per cent of new stock at $20 a share, and declare a 10 per cent stock dividend. The new stock will be placed on an annual $2 dividend basis.

The recapitalization is subject to approval of a stockholders' meeting on June 7. The plan contemplates issuance of $77,000,000 of 4 1/2 per cent serials, retention of $25,059 shares in the treasury, and retirement of the company's $4,627,000 first mortgage bonds in 1930.

The Foundation company reduced its annual common stock dividend rate from $2 to $6 by declaring a quarterly payment of $1.25, compared with $2 previously paid. The Continental Oil company declared a 25 cent quarterly dividend after increasing it to 30 cents three months ago.

The Ford Motor Company of Canada declared a dividend of 15 per cent, compared with 10 per cent paid on Oct. 1 last year. The Eastman Kodak company declared its usual quarterly extra dividend of 75 cents on the common stock.

Tribune pulls two-thirds of all inquiries in GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC TEA CO. test campaign

THE Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company is the largest chain store organization in Chicago. That its life depends on large and fast turnover is common knowledge. What greater endorsement than that they pronounce The Chicago Tribune "a most effective way of securing cash results and an excellent medium in which to build up future business"?

Three years ago the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company began to advertise extensively in The Chicago Tribune. The first year of Tribune advertising boosted their sales to such a marked degree that since that time they have increased their lineage 345% in The Tribune, and since January 1, 1927, they have used more lines and spent more dollars in The Tribune than in any other Chicago newspaper. Sales have soared and the auditor's report has justified their swing to The Tribune.

Recently this company conducted a three months' test to determine, by direct check, which morning newspaper was pulling best. They used keyed ads in The Tribune, the Herald-Examiner, and in their own paper, the A. & P. News. Hundreds of letters came in response to these ads and Great Atlantic and Pacific learned that 69% of their customers, responding to this advertising, had read their message in The Tribune—

THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC TEA COMPANY
MIDDLE WESTERN DIVISION—HEADQUARTERS—CHICAGO, ILL.

CHICAGO SOUTHERN OFFICE
645 W. PERRING ROAD
CHICAGO, ILL.

APRIL 16, 1927

Mr. WILLIAM E. BONHOMME,
Local Display Manager,
Chicago Tribune.

Dear Mr. Bonhomme:

We believe you will be interested in knowing that the Chicago Tribune lives up to, and goes beyond our expectations.

Eleven months ago we conceived the idea of offering our customers a service unrivaled in the grocery field. We installed a Home Economics Department, equipped to answer any questions that women customers might ask concerning foodstuffs. The problem of popularizing the woman who was appointed head of this department fell to the lot of the morning newspapers.

In checking over inquiries and general correspondence received by Ann Page, our Home Economics expert, we find that 69% of all letters have come from Tribune readers. The remaining 31% come from the other two media, one of which was our own paper, the Atlantic and Pacific News. This figure is the result of a three months' test in which advertisements were keyed in order to ascertain which publication was pulling the most letters.

We are very gratified by the result of our advertising over the last eleven months' period. Without doubt our Tribune advertising has paid.

Chicago Tribune advertising is not only an effective way of securing cash results but it is also an excellent medium in which to build future business. We take this opportunity of thanking you and Mr. James Lenoix for the splendid cooperation which you have given us.

Yours very truly,

THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC TEA COMPANY

more than twice as many as the other media combined could produce!

Buying The Tribune on Wednesday, Saturday, and Sunday, the Great Atlantic and Pacific Company found Tribune advertising immensely profitable for its chain of stores spread through the city of Chicago. They make the following unequivocal statements about results in their letter to The Tribune reproduced on this page:

"Our Tribune advertising has paid."

"The Chicago Tribune lives up to and goes beyond our expectations."

Many chain stores have found The Tribune Chicago's most effective medium for increasing sales. There are two reasons for this—The Tribune is the favorite paper of Chicago women and its coverage is complete. In the city and suburbs The Sunday Tribune reaches 230,000 more families than the second newspaper, and in Chicago and suburbs The Daily Tribune has more circulation than the total circulation of any other Chicago newspaper. Ask a Tribune man to call!

Sophy Tancred's Husbands

By ELIZABETH YORK MILLER.

SYNOPSIS.

Sophy and Pier Tancred have lately taken the Villa Mora at Bordighera on the Italian Riviera. Sophy learns that her former husband, Alan Brooke, the sculptor, is living nearby and that they are to meet at dinner that night. She is afraid of her husband's jealousy and since he thought she was a widow when he married her, she goes to Brooke's studio to warn him and bring Pier that they had been married. Alan tells Sophy that his housekeeper, Christina, is a wife and they have a little son, Willie Moppet, a male gossip who interrupts them and Sophy lies back into the Villa. Pier is in the room.

At dinner Alan and Sophy meet as if for the first time, but the Prince of Bordighera greets Sophy with Alan's name, recalling their studio days in Paris. Pier tells the princess she is a wife and Alan's wife, and they make a bust of Sophy.

Willie Moppet learns from his mother, who is an invalid living near Bordighera, that the Earl of Landell, to whom she was married, is dead. The Earl arrives in his villa with Willie's calls on him.

INSTALLMENT XXIX.
A SPITEFUL TAG.

The Earl of Landell was soon to discover that the paying of calls was a specialty with the English colony here, a local industry in fact, but it might safely be assumed that not many visitors would strike such a meticulous personal note at the very start as Willie Moppet did.

"You said it was a spiteful tag," the matronly had been worn threadbare. "I'm telling you, I practically live here. The climate agrees with me. You see, I'm rather delicate—although I don't look it."

"Dear me! Is that so?" his lordship observed wearily.

"Yes, unfortunately. Chest—inherited from my father's family. I believe," Willie murmured. "At least it must be, because on my mother's side, as far as I know, there's only rheumatism."

Lord Landell made a half-articulate noise which sounded like, "Al-ah-ah," and which might have been signified either assent or query, or even that he was not in the least interested.

"May I offer you a drink, Mr. Moppet?"

Willie took it entirely otherwise and enlarged accordingly. "I was always weak in the chest even as a boy," he went on. "In my schooldays—I well remember."

Lord Landell tapped on the arm of his chair with long slender fingers. Was this person knave, fool or escaped lunatic? Perhaps a keeper would appear presently to take him in charge.

"So you went to school," his lordship commented. "And what did you do with the money? I gave a scholarship, you know."

"God bless my soul, why should I know?"

The aged satyr squirmed just a little, and Willie was wondering why somebody wasn't called to eject his troublesome self.

"Only a manner of speaking. But I did win one. It was worth one hundred p. &., and the Sheppleton governors would have allowed me another fifty if I couldn't manage on that. Only I couldn't, and my mother couldn't afford to help me. You see, she only had fifty a year herself, beside her keep."

"Why should I see?"

"Another way of speaking, sir. But am I boring you?"

"Not in the least. Pray go on. I've rather a passion for autobiographies."

Willie flung him a sweet and winsome smile. "Of course, I don't mean myself, sir. I mean myself. I fancy my career has its romantic points."

For a bit I took on a grammar's job in a prep school, but there was always the handiness of my delicate chest, so for awhile I went to sea."

A thin, sarcastic laugh ebbed from his lordship. "You went to sea! Stew on a P. & O. liner, something like that?"

"No, sir. Submarine. That was during the war."

"O, I see—yes, now I see. One of our heroes."

"Dear me, I hope not," murmured Willie. "Anything but a hero—in a dead funk most of the time. Do you object if I light a cigaret?"

"Pray do. May I offer you a drink, Mr.—er—Moppet?"

"O, no, thanks. Very kind of you though."

"And after the war I came down here. As a matter of fact I was sent to Bordighera to convalesce. The whole of this town was one vast hospital, then; this hotel, all of 'em. And I liked it. I stayed, though, of course. It's pretty hot during July and August. I had a few visits in England and Scotland during those months."

"Yes, I see."

"You've got a fine old place in the Highlands, haven't you? I was shot."

"I was near there this past season—at Drumferrie, the Duke of Bossencough's. We had a day over your moors, I remember. Awfully decent of you to invite us. Your shooting is better than Bossencough's, poor fellow. Awfully thin there, but what I call more sporting. The birds don't come if you just whistle."

"Really! Upon my soul?" The sardonic heavy lidded eyes showed a hint of amusement.

Willie rose and made a formal, almost a continental, bow. "And now, sir, I think I've stayed long enough for a first call. But you will let me know if I don't see you again?"

"O, yes, certainly. Deeply obliged, I'm sure. It's been jolly having you turn up like this. Quite a surprise."

Willie hesitated, not sure whether he had drawn blood or not, but intersected in the experiment.

"Yes, quite a surprise," Landell continued smugly. "We must see more of each other. By the way, I suppose your dear mother isn't staying here with you?"

"O, it's awfully kind of you to mention her," gushed Willie. "She's not in the hotel—no. I've got her in—a—er—in a little villa near Vallecas. She's awfully bedridden, poor darling. That's to say, she can't get about except for drives now and again. But I'll tell her you inquired. She'll be delighted, I'm sure."

"Wait a minute!" It was now the turn of the hateful old man to hesitate. He shrugged his shoulders. "O, well—I think I might as well mention it. You could have gone to Cambridge, Moppet, if your mother had let me know about that scholarship."

"It would have been Oxford," Willie said coldly.

"No matter—although I should have preferred Cambridge. Are you married by any chance?"

"No, it doesn't run in my family," Willie replied, and made his exit upon his spiteful tag.

Except for the young and the innocent and the very hopeful, perhaps, as Christina, however economically planned requires a certain amount of risk. In Alan's case, Sophy decided to close, for instance, there would be no risk to wire for forgiveness and money, or either, and Alan was in a rather foolish predicament. It made him think of the old days, when being hard up was a chronic stain.

Up to a point it would work smoothly enough. Christina had her farm and her peasant's shrewdness. Among her own people that farm, upon which her father had cast eyes of envy and longing these many years, placed her was the rich of this earth. Where money was concerned, she had no further need of Alan Brooke. Also, she would possess Giovanni. Alan was not pleased with that idea, but he couldn't rob him of a sharp, decisive break with Giovanni, and he had no intention of making a sharp, decisive break with Christina. Let her be accustomed gradually to what would have happened.
